

The College of Saint Rose
Administration Center
Albany, New York

Owner: The College of Saint Rose

Total Construction Cost: $1,200,000.00

Complete programming and engineering design services for the conversion of an existing one-hundred year old historic structure that had been used as a City of Albany public library to house the chief administrative functions of the college. The project included an addition to provide elevator access and a second means of egress required by New York State Building Code and conversion of a full attic space to provide meeting rooms and a university board room. (Work performed by Karen L. Astorga , P.E. as head of the Engineering Department for Crozier Architects)
